LOUDOUN COUNTY ITEMS. - [From the Loudoun Mirror.]--Circuit Court, Judge Keith presiding, is still in session. A great deal of business has been disposed of, and several important cases thus stricken from the docket. An interesting Confederate money transaction was decided last week. The suit was that of Robert Bently, jr., vs. Gustavus Lersner, on an obligation given in 1863, for a property near Richmond, purchased by Bently at a Confederation. rate sequestration sale, and afterwards sold to Lersner for $10,000. The jury found for the plaintiff-scaled the debt to $285.74 in gold, upon which amount they allowed interest from the first of December, 1864, till paid. Hunton and Foster for the plaintiff; Powell Harrison and Taylor Scott for detendant. W. S. Downey's road case, an appeal from the County Court, and which has been heretofore warmly contested, was granted on Tuesday-the court allowing $350 for opening the road-W. S. Downy, or some one for him to enter into a bond of $1,000 to complete the work for that amount. Court will probably adjourn the end of the present week. Loudoun is a grand old county. There is no estimating her boundless resources when the proper facilities shall have been afforded for their development, and the W. & O. Railroad, since its completion to Purcellville, is realizing the truth of the assertion. And its success so far should serve as a stimulus to the people and an incentive to the company, to spare no effort to press it forward. At our request, the obliging agent at Purcellville has furnished us with the following report of business done there during the month of April. For the period named, there was shipped from that station: 8576 bus, corn; 5206 bus wheat; 110 bus, cats; potatoes; 37 bal a hay; 116 calves; 64 barrels eggs; 116 boxes eggs; 3 barrels brandy; 2 barrels wine. The agent adds: There were sent off quantities of butter, lard, oider, vinegar, chickens, geese, &c., that I have not mentioned in my report. There is about 900 bus. grain in cars and depot of this date, April 30,

The evening trains on the W. & O. Railroad, commenced their daily trips to Purcellville on Tuesday-so that hereafter there will be two trains each day to that point.

THE PEABODY DONATION FUND. - The trustees of the Peabody fund for providing homes for the poor of London have made their report for the year 1873. They had received from Mr. Peabody's executors, in accordance with the will, during the year, one hundred and fifty thousand pounds sterling. The whole amount bequeathed and now given is over a half a million pounds, and this has been increased by rents and interests over seventy-eight thousand "pouunds. This would be about two million eight hundred thousand dollars-a grand sum and a noble bequest for the poor. The fund was to be applied specially, as is generally known, to the acquiring of land and the erection thereon of cheap, comfortable dwellings for the deserving poor. Up to last January the trustees had expended three hundred thousand pounds for land and in building-namely, one hundred and two thousand for land and one hundred and ninety-eight thousand in building. The number of families now occupying a residence in the finished buildings is eight hundred and eighty two; and they occupy one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five rooms, averaging over two rooms to a family. The average rent of a room is forty cents a week within a fraction. The average earnings a week of each family is about six dollars. How many times over forty cents a week do our laboring poor pay for not such gaod accommodation, and often only for one room? At the Shad-well and Islington buildings the rents are even a little lower. The trustees have recently purchased a site of four and a half acres at Pimlico on which to erect buildings. There will soon be ready two blocks for the accommodation of forty-four families on the Blackfriars road estate, and sixteen blocks to accommodate three hundred and fifty two families are in course of construction near Stamford street. Besides these there will soon be ready six new blocks at Bermondsey for seventy two families. The net income derived from the buildings is about two and a half per cent. The expense of management seems to be very small. - N. Y. Herald.

AN AUTHOR'S DOMESTIC TROUBLES.-Michelet, the French writer who recently died, wrote most touchingly about the happiness of domestic life; the family; the love and affection of home; the close ties which bind those living together to each other. Not Byron, who did everything but beat his wife, and then wept over the recognition of his dog, could have been more tender. Swift, when he had just returned from that stormy interview that broke the heart of Vanessa, could not have praised more highly the sweet amenities of a happy household. Now, Michelet did, after his fashion, love his wife-loved her too much, in fact. While he was turning his pretty phrases in his study he sided with his wife against the rest of and be convinced. his family, and in a short time he and his wife were isolated from all the rest.

First his eldest son was driven from the pa rental roof. The young fellow lived in great misery for a long time, but finally got a place in the railway office at Strasburg. He had just enough to keep him alive and no more. One day he fell ill, and his place was given to another. When living on charity he wrote home for aid, but received no reply. This killed him. The next letter was from the doctor, and Michelet went to Strasburg to find his son a corpse. Then his son-in-law left his home; his daughter died on bad terms with him on account of his second wife, and as M. Dumesnil was not willing to have his children raised by Mme. Michelet, an open warfare was begun, and is still going on, over the dead body of Michelet.

An historical curiosity has just been placed in the Museum of the Invalides, Paris, viz: the suit of armor which Charles VII presented to Joan of Arc, and which the heroine went to deposit at St. Denis after having been wounded under the walls of Paris. It is composed of steel plates, weighs about fifty pounds, and in received by every respect resembles the one in the Pierrefonds Collection, which the Maid of Orleans wore at the moment when she fell into the power of the enemy in making a sortie from Compiegne.
